AIDA Cruises launches job campaign and offers 5,000 career opportunities on board and ashore

Following the successful restart, AIDA Cruises is currently looking for around 5,000 new employees worldwide for attractive jobs on board and on land to secure its further growth. The offers are not only aimed at qualified specialists and managers. The cruise company also opens a broad range of career opportunities for motivated lateral entrants and young professionals. In addition, AIDA Cruises offers a wide variety of attractive apprenticeships for the start into working life.

"Dedicated employees have always been part of our success. Whether on land or on board - they are the ambassadors of our company. We not only offer varied jobs in an international working environment, but also the opportunity to make a career with AIDA and discover the world," says Haike Witzke, Vice President Human Resources Management AIDA Cruises. "At our company, the individual skills of each person are valued, regardless of their origin, gender and religion. We encourage every motivated employee in their career planning."

AIDA Cruises also offers many other incentives. These include a company pension scheme, flexible working time models for family planning, comprehensive training and development programs, as well as attractive employee bonuses.

On land, a wide variety of diverse positions are currently open in the areas of IT, marketing, human resources, law, and in the AIDA Customer Center. The range of career opportunities on board extends from the hotel business (for example bar, reception, kitchen, restaurant) to wellness and activities (e.g., cosmetics, hairdresser, spa, fitness) to the care of young and grown-up guests. But AIDA Cruises also offers attractive jobs in occupational groups that are not necessarily associated with cruises, such as media designers, lighting, sound or event technicians.

AIDA Cruises is one of the largest tourism companies in Germany, has been named Germany's best employer several times in a row and was also among the TOP 20 nationwide in 2020. With the commissioning of AIDAcosma, the second LNG ship, at the end of 2021, AIDA Cruises will make a further leap in capacity, expand its range of offerings and continue its sustainable growth course in the German cruise market.
